Last summer, Jason and his two close friends decided to go on an adventure holiday in the mountains. They wanted to try different extreme sports and have an unforgettable experience. During their holiday, they did rafting in a fast river, went bungee jumping from a high bridge, and tried mountain biking on difficult roads.

Jason thinks rafting is more exciting than mountain biking because he loves water sports. However, he believes bungee jumping is the most dangerous activity because it involves jumping from a very high place. Although he felt a bit scared at first, he said it was a thrilling experience. On the other hand, he didn't enjoy mountain biking very much because it was too tiring and challenging for him.
